WITNESS

Faints at The Preliminary Examination Before Mayor Crilly

KERLIN-ZELINSKI HEARING

SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY GIVEN MONDAY AFTERNOON

McDonald for State, Smythe and Bolton for Defense—Hearing Not Yet Concluded.

Kerlin and Zelinski, the two men who were arrested for the murder of Stove Polisher Charles Higgins, were taken before Mayor Crilly Monday morning for a preliminary hearing. The case was postponed till afternoon, owing to the fact that Prosecutor Fitzgibbon was engaged in another trial.

The case was called Monday afternoon shortly after one o'clock. Attorney B. F. McDonald took the case for the state. After administering the oath to the witnesses and removing them from the court room, Officer Geo. McClure was called and offered his testimony. He told the court of hearing the shooting on the morning of Sunday, Nov. 12, and of finding Chas. Higgins in a dying condition. His story was practically the same as that given at the time of the arrest.

In speaking of Kerlin's arrest, Officer McClure stated that he was examining the wounded man when Kerlin came up and joined the party, which had gathered at the point where the shooting occurred. The officer testified that he was warned to keep watch on Kerlin, that he was in the vicinity of the "Pike" saloon when the shooting occurred.

Later, Kerlin's nervousness aroused the officer's suspicions and he was placed under arrest.

He testified that a revolver of 38 calibre was on the injured man and that the revolver taken from Kerlin was a 32 calibre weapon. He told of calling the coroner and the ambulance and stated that the man died before this was done.

On the cross-examination, the witness stated that Earl Warren told him that he saw a short, heavy set man with a dark moustache fire the shot which is supposed to have killed Higgins.

Earl Warren was the next witness called. He stated that he was on Railroad street on the night of the shooting. He said that he knew the defendant, Kerlin. He was with Higgins on the night of the shooting and they were in the yard east of the "Pike" saloon. He and Higgins had been in the house and were just leaving the murderer when shot and that witness stated that Higgins was racing the murderer when shot and that the murderer was not more than 10 feet from Higgins at the time.

Warren said that the man with the gun was in front of the house when they left the door. "Here, you fellows, stop right where you are!" was the only warning Higgins had that an assault was contemplated.

The witness testified that Higgins staggered after the first shot but that he did not know when he fell as he (Warren) ran at the first shot, going east.

"I didn't see Kerlin on Walnut St. at the time of the shooting. The man who fired the shots wore a slouch hat and was about 6 feet tall," said Warren. Attorney McDonald pointed out the defendant, Kerlin and asked the witness if he could identify him. Warren admitted that he could not do so.

McLaughlin, another, non-union polisher, was called. His testimony differed but little from that offered by Warren. He stated that Baker and Long, two of his companions were with him when he arrived at the point where Higgins was found. He told of the arrival of the crowd and of the officers.

"I SAW KERLIN THERE WITH THE CROWD THAT NIGHT. YES, I SAW HIM ONCE BEFORE THAT NIGHT AND HE WAS DISCHARGING HIS REVOLVER AT HIGGINS WHILE STANDING IN THE YARD WEST OF THE 'PIKE' SALOON. After the shooting he went out on the porch of 145 Railroad street. The shots were fired about five minutes after Higgins left the house. After the shooting I went west on Railroad street to Sixth and then east on the railroad to the point where Higgins was found. He was dying when I arrived. He lived about five minutes after we got to his side. I was the first in the party to find Higgins' body. Kerlin, the witness said, joined the party where Higgins was lying and seemed rather nervous, though he said nothing.

On the cross-examination the witness stated he had lived in Newark for two years but had never seen the defendant until the night of the shooting.

Witness F. R. McLaughlin, while under cross-examination became weakened by the heat of the court room and the excitement attending the examination, and fainted. The court officials made an effort to revive him, but it was necessary to delay the proceedings and call a physician.

Attorney Smythe in his cross examination of McLaughlin confused the man and secured an admission that he had talked over the testimony he was to offer, with several other of the state's witnesses. He told the court during the examination, that he saw Kerlin fire the shot. Attorney Smythe cross-examined him and he told the court that he had stated to Officer McClure on the sight of the shooting that he did not know who fired the shot but that he thought Kerlin knew something about it if he did not do the shooting.

Dr. William H. Knauss was called and attended McLaughlin, who was removed to another room in the city building where he was placed on a couch. The court room was hot and McLaughlin was sitting where the sun's rays fell upon his face.

After waiting for forty-five minutes for an attorney to prosecute the cases against John Zelinski and George H. Kerlin, Prosecutor Fitzgibbon dropped in Mayor Crilly's court long enough Monday morning to ask that the case be continued. This was a signal for the exchange of compliments between the Prosecutor and City Solicitor P. B. Smythe who is the attorney for the defense in the case.

In asking for the continuance, Mr. Fitzgibbon took occasion to state to the court that in his opinion, it was the duty of the city solicitor to prosecute the criminal cases which came up for trial before the mayor. "I make a formal application, if the court please, to have this case continued until tonight," said the prosecutor.

"These men are being held in jail on this charge and are entitled to a hearing," said Attorney Smythe. "They have already been held longer than the four days allowed by law. If we can't get a hearing before this court we will take it elsewhere. We can probably get a hearing before the probate court on a writ of habeas corpus," continued Mr. Smythe.

"It is understood," said Prosecutor Fitzgibbon, "that when the city solicitor's salary was raised from $600 to $1500 per year, that he was to prosecute all criminal cases brought before the mayor's court."

"The city solicitor is not going to prosecute this case, at any rate," replied Attorney Smythe. "You're making a play to the grand stand now and it is a well known fact that you are the prosecutor can't represent the state in this case, there are fifty or seventy-five other attorneys in the city, any one of whom could probably be secured to represent the prosecution." With these remarks Attorney Smythe ended his statement.

"This court will not conduct any night sessions," said Mayor Crilly. "The case will be continued until one o'clock this afternoon until an attorney can be secured."

Officers McClure and Zergiebel were handcuffed to the prisoners and they were returned to their cells in the county jail. The crowd which had assembled in the court room was disappointed in the primal object of their visit to the city building but were treated to a surprise in the nature of a dispute between the attorneys in the case.

HAUGH'S QUIET DAY

Dayton, O., Nov. 20.—Dr. O. C. Haugh, the alleged murderer spent a quiet day in jail where Sunday callers were not allowed to see him. When special religious services were held in the afternoon Haugh declined to participate. The burns on his leg, generally supposed to be self-inflicted still bother him, and he is unable to walk about with much freedom. Haugh remains in his cell most of the time and is under guard.

ON HIGHWAYS

National Grange Will Discuss Employment of Convicts.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 20.—The National Grange Patrons of Husbandry held memorial services, which were attended by 2,000 grangers and their wives. Chief Granger Aaron Jones presided. Among the resolutions to come up for debate is one by F. A. Detrick of Ohio, which suggests the employment of convict labor on highways. This resolution is liable to cause considerable discussion, as it is held that it will come in conflict with labor unions.

OVER HUNDRED

Perish in Wreck of Hilda During a Blinding Snow Storm

FEW OF SURVIVORS MAY DIE

IMPOSSIBLE YET FOR VESSELS TO APPROACH WRECK

Storm Mist Captain in Calculations --Ship Broken Into Three Parts --Explosion Followed.

Southampton, England, Nov. 20.—Southwestern Railway officials say today that 101 passengers and a crew of 28 men were aboard the Hilda. Only six persons were saved.

St. Malo, France, Nov. 20.—Definite information about the circumstances of the wreck of the steamer Hilda yesterday are still lacking today. The general opinion this morning was that the catastrophe was due to a species of mirage which apparently altered the position of the shore and channel lights, causing the captain to take the wrong course in the channel. After the shock the ship settled with appalling rapidity, going down before the passengers were able to dress. Five survivors found entangled in a network of ropes are now in hospitals and may die. The only members of the crew saved so far as known was Fireman Grinter. It is impossible for vessels yet to approach the scene of the wreck.

Thirty-six bodies have been washed ashore at St. Cast. Reports received from along the coast state that 57 bodies have been recovered.

Later information today is that a blinding snow storm was responsible for misleading the captain in his calculations. While this led directly to the wreck, there are evidences that an explosion on board the vessel was responsible for a great part of the damage to the ship and the consequent loss of life. The bottom of the Hilda was torn out by rocks on which she struck. Water flowed in reaching the boilers and causing an explosion which broke the ship into three parts. The water poured into the hull flooding the cabins and drowning the passengers in the state rooms before they could escape.

The Hilda left Southampton Friday for St. Malo with considerably more than 100 souls on board. Her passage was greatly delayed by a fog in the channel, and when nearing St. Malo she ran into a severe snowstorm, apparently missed her course and foundered on the rocks off Jardin light-house, about three miles from St. Malo. The Hilda was near St. Malo Saturday morning. She struck the rocks at 4 o'clock Sunday morning in the roadstead off the island Cezembre, having missed the tide owing to bad weather and fog. The majority of the crew and passengers were asleep at the time. Two boats were lowered, one of which, containing five men, arrived at St. Servan. The second boat was picked up empty at St. Cast, where 13 bodies were washed ashore. The top of the Hilda's funnel and her mast are visible at low tide, according to the telegram from St. Servan.

The disaster was first suspected through the washing ashore of a body, and the port authorities immediately sent out a tug. It was then learned that the Hilda was wrecked on a treacherous reef close to the island of Cezembre, called "Les Portes." She had apparently struck, broken her back and immediately sunk, leaving no time to launch the boats. The Jardin light is quite close to the spot. It can not be explained at what time or how the disaster occurred. The entrance to St. Malo is dangerous, the currents and rocks needing the exercise of caution at all times, but more especially in bad weather. Many bodies have been washed ashore at different points, some wearing life belts. Six of the survivors, according to a report in circulation here, were rescued by the Ada from the floating.

The exact number of lives lost on the Hilda is unknown. It is understood that there were about 26 first-class passengers, including several English people. It is known that all the first-class passengers were unharmed. These passengers were English officers and others who were coming to rejoin their families or to spend the season at St. Malo and Dinard, opposite St. Malo. It appears to be certain that only six were saved, these being five union seamen and an English seaman named Grinter, and that the total on board, including the crew, numbered 165.

TWO SCORE SUFFOCATED

Serious Loss of Life Attends a Hotel Fire in Glasgow.

THIRTY PERSONS ARE HURT

Desperate Struggle For Life Occurs In the Upper Floors of the Building, the Means of Escape of Hundreds Being Cut Off—Victims Mostly Workmen.

Glasgow, Scotland, Nov. 20.—Thirty-nine men perished and as many more were injured in a fire that damaged a cheap lodging house in this city. The flames were first noticed at an early hour on the fourth floor of the building, which was occupied by 320 men. An alarm was raised and the firemen responded quickly, but flames and smoke were issuing from most of the windows on the fourth floor. An extraordinary scene was created by a procession of almost naked men rushing out of the entrance to the building, and against their frantic efforts to escape the firemen had actually to fight for admission. Reaching upper floors, firemen found that the narrow passages were becoming congested with men who had dropped to the floors overcome by smoke. The fire, however, was confined to the fourth floor, and as soon as the firemen were able to get to work it was speedily extinguished. The flames had been fed by the wooden partitions, which threw off volumes of smoke, resulting in the suffocation of the inmates. Many, on being brought to the street, rallied in a few minutes, but others had to be taken to the hospitals.

The dead were mostly workmen in the prime of life. They presented a horrible spectacle, their blackened faces bearing evidence of terrible struggles to escape. Many men were sleeping in the attic floor above the burning fourth floor, and these had narrow escapes. The flames burst through the floor and it was impossible for the men to descend. The windows were securely fastened, and the men had to break them so that they could climb through to neighboring roofs. A search of the building was made and a complete list of the victims obtained, which showed that 29 were dead and 32 injured.

DOORS LOCKED

And Unable to Break Them With an Ax She Used It On Assailant's Skull.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 20.—The charge of murder may be placed against Annie wife of August Neuman, living near Berea. She admits crushing the skull of Samuel Betz with an ax, but claims she committed the deed in self-defense.

Betz and Neuman, employed in street paving in Berea, have been living in a hut near the village. Saturday night Mrs. Neuman went from Cleveland to spend the night with them. About 3 o'clock Sunday morning Mrs. Neuman was awakened by Betz, who, she says, tried to assault her. She arose and tried to leave, but found the doors locked. Unable to break them open, with an ax she attacked Betz, crushing his skull. He will die.

Neuman has a wooden leg, but had taken it off when he went to bed, and consequently was unable to defend his wife.

BOOM FOR GARBER

Washington, Nov. 20.—The recent Democratic victory in Ohio has brought into national prominence the man who led the hosts on that occasion. Already there is gossip looking to recognition of the merits as an organizer of Congressmen Harvey C. Garber, the only Democrat from the Buckeye state in congress, who will consequently represent that commonwealth on the congressional committee. The congressional committee is in need of a leader and Garber's name has been thoroughly canvassed. The chairmanship will be offered him, and as the next congressional election gives promise of being an important one and offers undeniably prospects of Democratic gains, his standing as a Democrat of national size seems assured if he shall accept the tender. Members have tired of southern leadership of the committee and Garber's election would prove something of a departure.

WIDOW 99 SURVIVES

Serres, Ky., Nov. 20.—"Uncle" Nelson Harmon and the oldest man in Eastern Kentucky dead at the age of 99. He resided for over three quarters of a century. A widow four years his junior survives him.

DECISION

In Lingafelter Cases be Given in Mt. Vernon December 18

SAYS JUDGE M. DONAHUE

NO REASON IS GIVEN FOR THE DELAY OF THE COURT

Owing to Postponement No Lingafelter Cases Will be Tried at This Term of Court.

Prosecuting Attorney James R. Fitzgibbon announced Monday noon that he is in receipt of a letter from one of the circuit judges, Hon. Maurice L. Donahue, of New Lexington, saying that the circuit court will not render its decision in the James J. and Robert C. Lingfelter cases until December 18th at Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

It was expected that the circuit court's decision in these two cases would be given last week and the failure to do so led Mr. Fitzgibbon to inquire when the court's opinion would be given. No reason is assigned for delay in giving the decision.

Owing to the fact that the circuit court will not decide until the 18th, the two cases tried last spring in common pleas court at Mt. Vernon, resulting in the conviction of both of the defendants, each being sentenced to five years' imprisonment. Mr. Fitzgibbon says that it will be impossible to try any of the Lingfelter cases at this term of common pleas court as he had intended. The prosecutor desires the circuit court's opinion on the cases already tried before proceeding further in common pleas court. The cases in common pleas will therefore go over till the January term.

SULTAN IS ILL.

Constantinople, Nov. 20.—The sultan has been suffering for several days from an acute attack of neuralgia, which has greatly diminished his strength. A physician has been summoned from Berlin to treat the royal patient.

AGED BROTHERS

Died Within Five Minutes of Each Other in Mahoning County Sunday Morning.

Youngstown, O., Nov. 20.—Within five minutes of each other two aged brothers died, one at Canfield and the other at Columbiana, this county Sunday. They are Allen Calvin, aged 62, and Samuel Calvin, aged 67. Allen was afflicted with liver trouble and Samuel with various infirmities of old age. They will be buried, Allen, Wednesday at Canfield and Samuel, Tuesday at Greenford.

Allen was a prosperous flour mill owner and leaves two children, James V., of Endsley, Ala., and Mrs. J. C. Ewing, of this city. Besides the son Crayton, with whom Samuel lived, one daughter, Mrs. C. Cornell, lives at Seattle.

CONVENTION

Agreed Upon By Japan and Korea—States of Japanese Residents Established.

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 20.—The new convention agreed upon by Japan and Korea, in addition to establishing the status of Japanese residents and the transfer of the management of the foreign relations to Japan, provided that there shall be no interference with existing treaties and for the retransfer of the administration of external relations when the Korean government is established.

It is believed that the new convention will be a great step toward the establishment of a permanent peace in the Far East.

REJECTED

Has Been McCurdy's Salary Proposition By Mutual Life's Committee, With Approval Trustees.

New York, Nov. 20.—Richard A. McCurdy's attempt to have his salary as president of the Mutual Life Insurance company cut from $15,000 to $10,000 a year looks like a failure.

ure. The announcement that the board of trustees had agreed to the halving of McCurdy's salary was exactly contrary to the truth.

The board of trustees of the Mutual adopted a report refusing to make any change in salaries. Not only did the trustees turn down the McCurdy proposition, but they went further, and stated that they would not make the change because it might look like a ratification of the past, and the commitment of the company to the continuance of the personnel of the present management.

It was said to-day that the Mutual Life had started in on a house-cleaning that would be more sweeping in its effects than the shake-up in the Equitable. A body of expert accountants and auditors have arrived from London to help in the task of looking up the records of the company.

The report of the special investigating committee—William H. Truesdale, John W. Auchinloss and Stuyvesant Fish—was adopted by the board of trustees. Here is what the report said to President McCurdy's offer to accept a reduction in salary:

"Your committee early reached the conclusion that any action taken at this time in changing the scale of determining it for the future involved both a ratification of the past, a position fraught with possible complications to the company and its trustees, and the further question of the commitment of the company to the continuance of the personnel of the present management. Your committee, therefore, was, and remains, unwilling to judge the situation in either particular without obtaining the precedent authority of the board of trustees, taken with a full understanding of all the facts and possibilities."

FAREWELL TOUR

Sara Bernhardt Left New York Sunday Night for Chicago—Plays Monday Night.

New York, Nov. 20.—In the private car Mayflower, Sara Bernhardt left New York for Chicago Sunday night over the New York Central railroad, on a special schedule which the railroad officials say will bring her to her destination in 18 hours. The actress and her company are booked to open in the western city tonight in Sardou's "La Sordide." Mme. Bernhardt and her company arrived in New York late Sunday afternoon on the French line steamer La Touraine. Mme. Bernhardt says the present is her farewell tour of America.

WOMAN KILLED

And a Man Fatally Wounded By Chaney in a Jealous Rage—He Is in Jail.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Nov. 20.—Maud Ellis was shot in the breast twice by John Chaney Saturday night, receiving wounds from which she died several minutes later. He followed her from the house where she lived when he fired the first shot, which took effect in her breast. He then pursued her into the house, where the second fatal shot was fired.

After the deed Chaney came to town where he shot and wounded Duncan Veach, who, it is thought, will die. He was arrested and lodged in jail. The verdict of the coroner's inquest over the Ellis woman was murder. Jealousy is supposed to have been the cause of the killing.

ROSSA WELCOMED

Cork, Ireland, Nov. 20.—Several thousand persons participated in a demonstration of welcome to O'Donnovan Rossa, his arrival coinciding with the annual demonstration in memory of the "Manchester martyrs." Allen, Larkin and O'Brien. The new house at Black Rock which has been purchased and furnished by admirers of Mr. Rossa was formally presented to him. In the course of a speech of thanks Mr. Rossa told his hearers that if they desired to free Ireland they must employ the same weapons that Great Britain used against her enemies. Mr. Rossa is to assume the duties of secretary of the Cork county council, to which he was elected last September.

BAR OF GOLD

For Best Story on Colorado Written By Members of Press Club at Denver in 1906.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 20.—A thousand dollar bar of gold bullion has been given to the Denver Press club by Fred J. Shafter, a wealthy mining man, as a prize for the best story on Colorado written by any one attending the annual meeting of the National Association of Press Clubs, to be held here in August, 1906. The visiting writers, who are expected to number several thousand, will be entertained at Colorado's expense and will be taken on a tour of the state.

STEEL INGOT

That Absorbed Two Men Is Buried With Ceremony at Philadelphia

A STRANGE FUNERAL SERVICE

AT THE IMMENSE GRAVE BACK OF BIG MACHINE SHOP

Philadelphia Company Looks After the Obsequies of Employees Who Met Awful Death.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 20.—A funeral without a parallel in modern times took place at the Midvale steel works Sunday, when a forty-ton ingot of steel, representing all that remains of the two workmen who were cremated in the molten mass, was buried with ceremonies as impressive as though the bodies themselves were being consigned to the grave.

As priests recited the last rites of the Catholic church over the ingot every wheel in the works was still.

It was an awed silence of perhaps an hour that cost one of the country's greatest industries thousands of dollars for while the services were being said over a lifeless mass of steel orders aggregating millions waited.

John Forkin and Joseph Gorda, employees were assigned to dig a pit in front of one of the big furnaces into which the liquid metal was to run. They were working 15 feet below the yawning mouth of the furnace when it burst and a torrent of boiling steel poured down upon them. A stifled cry warned other employees of the catastrophe.

When a sorrowful circle gathered around the pit, a lake of red, glowing metal, there was not a single sign of the two workmen. Flesh, clothing, the wooden handles of their tools and even the hardened steel implements themselves had been cremated in an instant.

It took many hours for the mass to cool and a conference of officials of the company decided that the ingot, although it doubtless did not contain a single tangible ounce of the ashes of the cremated men, should be buried with every rite due the bodies themselves.

A big pit was dug in the yard of the works. Huge cranes lifted the 40 tons of metal out of the casting room and lowered it into the freshly made grave. The relatives of the two men were advised that the services would be conducted over the mass Sunday.

The services were in both Polish and English, as the workmen were of different nationalities.

Gorda's two sisters were the only mourners, as Forkin left no one in this city. A Polish priest accompanied the sisters to perform the Polish ceremony. Every workman who had duty at the shops for the day stood, hat in hand, on three sides of the inclosure and the silence as the first words of the ceremony were spoken, was so intense as almost to be felt.

There were no tears, there was no pall, there were no flowers. Those present stared down into a deep pit at a black mass of steel as though unable to grasp the significance of its gruesome burden.

The final sentences of the Polish services spoken planks were laid across the chasm, the workmen went about their tasks and soon the busy hum of industry was once again at its height.

The fact that no earth was thrown in upon the ingot has aroused a suspicion among some of the superstitious workmen that the ingot is clandestinely to be remelted. It represents a value of about $2,000, and gossip about the shops has it that the company will not permit so much to remain in the ground merely as a matter of sentiment.

In their childish way the workmen, most of whom are foreigners, declare that if this is done the vengeance of the metal will once again assert itself and will add a new tragedy to its already remarkable record.

Norwegian parliament unanimously elected Prince Charles of Denmark to be king of Norway.

Korean cabinet agreed to adopt the proposition for a Japanese protectorate over Korea, made by Marquis Ito.

Judge John Roberts of the recorder's court at Traverse City, Mich., died of an ailment. He was born in Johnson, O., in 1845.

MRS. PAXTON MAKES DENIAL

SHE SAYS SHE HAS NOT DESERTED.
ED HER CHILDREN.

Does Not Know Why Humane Society
Should Be Called in Her Home.

"I wish you would tell the people of Newark that the story in another paper Saturday that I had deserted my children in Cincinnati is all a bad mistake," said Mrs. Mabel Paxton to a reporter for the Advocate Monday morning.

The story to which Mrs. Paxton referred was originally printed in a Cincinnati paper. It told of the alleged hardships of ten-year-old Goldie Paxton, who, it was said, was caring for her three younger sisters in their Cincinnati home.

Mrs. Paxton was called here by the death of her father, Mr. Frank Henderson, who was buried three weeks ago. The daughter brought suit for the recovery of her share of the property and was unavoidably detained here by the court proceedings.

"When I left home upon receiving the news of my father's death, my husband said that he would at once secure the services of a housekeeper. She was to take care of the place until after I had settled up the matters of my father's estate and I was to return to him as soon as possible. I have been hearing from them regularly and there was no intimation in any of the letters that he had not done so and nothing was said that would lead me to believe that things in my home were not going along smoothly.

"I don't know why the humane society or anyone else would be called upon to do anything. If my husband has been working and has done what he said he would do, there is no reason for it. Mr. Paxton is a drinking man and I feel that something serious has occurred.

"As soon as I can get my legal business settled, I will send for them and we will make Newark our future home. My husband and I were born in Licking county and were married here thirteen years ago. We have lived in Cincinnati for a little more than a year.

"No," Mrs. Paxton said in reply to a question. "My husband and I had no trouble before I left and I can not account for the condition of things at home."

The article to which Mrs. Paxton referred and which was published in Cincinnati, follows:

"Oh, I do wish mother would come. I get so lonesome during the day with only my little sister here, and I want to go to school so bad. I want to be educated like other girls."

With tears streaming from her big blue eyes, Goldie May Paxton, 10, sat in a big room on the second floor of an apartment house at 1574 Central avenue, and told how she acted as mother to her three little sisters.

This is the case that was reported by kind-hearted neighbors and which is now being investigated by Humane Officer James Allen.

"My papa has to work awful hard," said Goldie. "He leaves at 6 o'clock in the morning and is not back until 9 o'clock at night. I have three sisters. Edith is only 9, Helen is 5 and Eva is 4. Edith and Helen go to school and I have to look after Eva. Mamma went to Newark, Ohio, to attend the funeral of grandpa three weeks ago and she has not come back.

"Once mamma was away for two months and I had to look after the children," said this little mother, with a pathetic droop of her baby lips. "Papa gives us plenty of clothes and leaves me money to keep house on. I buy all the provisions and cook dinner for my sisters. If it wasn't for Daisy Shelley, my cousin, I don't know what I would do. Daisy is 16 and works all day in a soap factory. She stays here at night and helps me.

"Papa says he will get a housekeeper and let me go to school. The teacher says she will keep my books until I come back, but it looks as if I never will get back to my lessons again," and the little mother, who had kept up so bravely for her sisters' sake, broke down and sobbed as if her heart would break.

Still Aground.

New York, Nov. 20.—The German steamer Capri, in command of Captain Carlsen and loaded for Hamburg, which went aground off Communipaw, N. J., is still aground. A number of tugs made an attempt at high water to float the steamer, but were unsuccessful. It is probable that the vessel will have to lighten a portion of her cargo before she can be floated.

German Editor Dead.

St. Louis, Nov. 20.—After suffering for one week from blood poisoning, resulting from a slight scratch on the leg, Dr. Emil Prechtel, 78, editor-in-chief of the Westliche-Post and Nestor of the German press in the west, is dead. He was born in Alzey, Rhineland, Germany, in 1827.

Death of an Architect.

Fairmont, W. Va., Nov. 20.—Watts B. Ireland, a young architect of this city, and the son of a Morristown preacher, committed suicide here by shooting himself in the mouth. No motive assigned.

To Dramatize "Prince of India."

Chicago, Nov. 20.—At a conference of theatrical managers here arrangements were completed for an original presentation at the Colonial theater soon after the first of the year of a dramatization of General Lew Wallace's "Prince of India." More than 500 persons, including a Turkish army of 200 and a Roman army of like number, will be employed in the production.

Anglo-Tibetan Treaty.

London, Nov. 20.—The Tokyo correspondent of the Daily Telegraph understands that an Anglo-Tibetan treaty has been signed, and that it provides that Great Britain shall acknowledge Chinese sovereignty in Tibet, in return for which China will pay an indemnity.

Dead at Eighty.

Chambersburg, Pa., Nov. 20.—The Rev. J. G. Reaser, D. D. professor of the Bible at Wilson college, is dead of paralysis. Deceased, who was 80 years of age, was prominent in the civil war period in the Presbyterian church in Kansas.

Four Bodies Recovered.

Kiel, Nov. 20.—Divers discovered that the torpedo boat S 125, which during the maneuvers in Kiel bay Friday night sank after colliding with the cruiser Undine, is lying in the mud with a list to port. Four bodies have been recovered.

Insects Attack Rubber Trees.

City of Mexico, Nov. 20.—Rubber planters in the state of Vera Cruz complain of insects that attack rubber trees, and have invoked the aid of the government's bacteriological experts, who are studying means for the extermination of the pest.

Teacher Died.

Fairmont, W. Va., Nov. 20.—Walter Smith, the Houli schoolteacher, who was assaulted by B. F. Mayle, whose boy Smith had whipped, died in a local hospital without regaining consciousness. Mayle escaped.

Destructive Fire.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 20.—A solid half block of buildings was totally destroyed by fire, which broke out shortly after midnight. The loss is estimated at $150,000. The amount of insurance is unknown. The heaviest losers will be the Alabama Penny Savings bank and the People's Telephone exchange, adjoining. A four-story structure adjoining the store of Loveman, Joseph & Loeb was entirely burned. The fire broke out in a warehouse on the alley across from the postoffice. The federal building at one time seemed in danger, but an alley separated it from the burned buildings.

Town Swept by Flames.

Sergeant, Ky., Nov. 20.—The town of Estillville, across the Kentucky border in Virginia, was swept by a disastrous fire. The Myrtle hotel, Adjoining House, a number of dry goods stores and several residences were burned. The loss is estimated at $75,000, with about one-third covered by insurance. The fire originated in the Myrtle hotel.

King Alfonso's Choice.

Madrid, Nov. 20.—The Correspondencia asserts that King Alfonso will be married to Princess Ena of Battenberg in May, 1906. Princess Ena of Battenberg is the only daughter of the widow of Princess Henry of Battenberg, who is the youngest sister of King Edward.

Danger of Clash Averted.

Washington, Nov. 20.—All danger of a clash between the Gloucester and Newfoundland fishermen has been averted, it is believed, for this season by the exchange between Secretary Root and Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador. The secretary is now awaiting the reply of the London government to his memorandum, in which he called attention to the three main points of difference. This is expected some time within the week, and its receipt, it is believed, will clear up practically the entire situation.

Latest Football Victim.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 20.—Homer Gibson, right halfback of the Kansas City manual training school football team, who was injured Saturday, is reported to be dying. He was hastily removed from the hotel to St. Elizabeth's hospital, where the operation was performed of trepanning of the skull to relieve a blood clot. His brother and a professor of the Kansas City school are with him, and his mother has been telegraphed for.

Taft in Missouri.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 20.—Four troops of the Ninth cavalry, under command of Major James B. Erwin, arrived here from Fort Leavenworth to act as an escort for Secretary of War Taft. Secretary Taft will leave for Chicago on a special train immediately following the Commercial club dinner, at which he will be the principal speaker.

Bishop Davis Injured.

Elwood, Ind., Nov. 20.—The Rev. D. W. Davis, who was last week re-elected for the fourth time bishop of the Heavenly Recruit churches in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Missouri, has been compelled to abandon his annual trip over his diocese because of injuries sustained in an explosion of kerosene, with which he was trying to start a fire.

Hunter's Fate.

Waverly, O., Nov. 20.—Lafayette Fletcher, 45, of Columbus O., was killed by the accidental discharge of his gun while climbing a fence near Denver, Ross county, where he was hunting. Fletcher leaves a family of eight children.

A Changeful Rhyme.

THE goddess of our home I sing,
The creature all bewitching,
Sweet, faithful-wife, who is the thing
That now is in our kitchen?

She only wants her Sundays free,
A bedroom large and airy
And beans from eight till half past three;
I sing, I sing of Currie.

Her skin is white, her eyes are black,
Her biscuits are like mamma;
We cannot do, alas, a lack,
Without our darling Hannah.

Her skin is black, her eyes are white,
Her ancestry is Zulu;
She burns the gas, I think, all night,
But still we love our Lulu.

The way our dishes chip and break
Is something quite uncanny.
We bear it all for comfort's sake
And cling to precious Annie;

She will not iron, wash nor sweep;
She's just a bit contrary.
But this our highest hope—to keep
Through thick and thin our Mary.

So if we hear gay fingers strike
A-playing some burlesco,
We get the meat—we would not like
To bother Henrietta.

Oh, fate, I kneel and humbly sue
Thill trouble both are baggy;
We are willing anything to do
Save give up (who, wife?) Maggie.

—Puck.

Bread Upon the Waters.

A young physician just out of college opened an office in a little southern town where he had formerly been a drug clerk. His first call came from the colored quarry. Upon his arrival at the home of the patient he was informed that he had been called upon by the recommendation of a neighbor, who considered him the best doctor in town. Presently the neighbor came in and explained:

"Yes, sah, I done tell ev'body 'at you's do bes' docteh in town, 'cause ten years ago when my Susie had the convulsions you sold me a twenty-five cent bottle of patent medicine, and dey ain't a one of my chillun had a symptom of dat disease since. You shal' allus be my docteh!"—New York Times.

On Time

Flustered Old Lady—What time is the next train for Puddleboro, young man?
Porter—Not another one till 4:14, ma'am.
Flustered Old Lady (devoutly)—Thank ev'ins, I'm in time!—Bystander.

A Bad Break.

"I hear that English nobleman has discontinued his attentions to Miss Nuritch."

"Yes; he queered himself with old Nuritch. The clump asked the old fellow if he ever followed the hounds."

"Well?"
"Well, Nuritch was a dog catcher before he made his pile."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Himself.

Cholly—Such vulgar persons. They talked forever about twade, don't y' know.
Miss Sharpe—And what did you talk about?

Cholly—Nothing.
Miss Sharpe—The idea! How egotistical!—Philadelphia Ledger.

An Ardent Observation.

"That supercilious man is always talking about his family tree."
"Yes," answered Miss Cavenne, "I have observed in nature that it is always the smallest twig that does the most rustling."—Washington Star.

Never Has Any.

"There goes B Jones, the poet. That man has absolutely no idea of the value of money."
"How is that?"
"Didn't I say he was a poet?"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Striking an Average.

"Poddleton has bought an absolutely noiseless auto."
"Indeed."
"Yes. And he's got the noisiest horn in town attached to it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Two of a Kind.

Dobson—Is there a list of millionaires published?
Holson—Not that I know of, but you can probably get a list of the fellows who dodge their taxes.—Tom Watson's Magazine.

Positive.

May—Are you sure her complexion is genuine?
Rees—Positive. I saw the written guarantee that comes with every box.—Judge.

Weighted 400 Pounds.
Kent, O., Nov. 20.—Irvin Kelso, aged 54 years, weighing 400 pounds, died here from heart trouble and enlargement of the liver.

Windowglass Prices.

Cleveland, Nov. 20.—A stiffening of the windowglass market and a higher price for windowglass will be the purpose of a meeting of independent glass manufacturers and a committee representing the Amalgamated Windowglass Workers of America, to be held at Buffalo Thursday. President A. L. Faulkner of the Amalgamated Windowglass Workers has sent a notice to the independent manufacturers all over the United States who have signed the Amalgamated scale requiring them to send a representative to attend a conference at the Troquois hotel in Buffalo. In his circular Mr. Faulkner states that he is confident that the result of the meeting will be beneficial to interests that are now seriously menaced by the attitude of the American Windowglass company.

Lost Thumb; Suicided.

Fostoria, O., Nov. 20.—Conrad Hellriegel committed suicide by hanging himself to a rafter in an outhouse of his home. Hellriegel was foreman of a sash factory, and met with an accident some weeks ago by which he lost his thumb. He worried over the injury, which he thought made it impossible for him to support his family, until he evidently became deranged. A widow and five children survive.

Workman Decapitated.

Delaware, O., Nov. 20.—Austin C. Calley, 35, a laborer, was run over in the Big Four yards, presumably while he was on his way to a farm east of the city, where he was employed. The headless body was discovered by a railroad worker, while walking along the track, stumbled over it. After a search the head was found some 40 feet from where the body lay.

Boys Hurt While Coasting.

Findlay, O., Nov. 20.—Earl Russ, 20, and John Russ, 14, were seriously injured while coasting down the cemented sides of the reservoir, which is 30 feet deep. They started from opposite sides and came together about the center, both being hurled many feet by the impact. The younger is fatally injured and the elder seriously.

New Boat Line.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 20.—A new boat line between Cleveland and Buffalo, with George P. Rand of the Columbia National bank of Buffalo at its head, will begin operations at the opening of navigation next spring. There will be a boat each way daily.

Boy Hangs Himself.

Washington C. H., O., Nov. 20.—Kenneth Smith, 16, son of George Smith, living on the Robert Howat place, was found hanging in a stall at his home. He had been dead a half hour when discovered. The cause of his act is not known.

Professor Kenaston.

Oberlin, O., Nov. 20.—Professor Carlos Kenaston, a graduate of Oberlin of the class of 1861 and for several years professor of Greek in Ripon college, Wisconsin, and later at Howard university, Washington, D. C., is dead.

McCurdy's Charges

Are Denied By Former State Insurance Commissioner Andrew K. Clinie, at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—Former State Insurance Commissioner Andrew K. Clinie has taken exceptions to the testimony given by S. S. McCurdy of the Equitable Life before the New York investigating committee insofar as it related to Mr. Clinie's attitude toward life insurance companies while he was insurance commissioner. Mr. Clinie says: "I have never heard of any demand or command for a compensation for my brother from the Equitable or any other company and I do not believe there is the slightest essence of truth in any of these charges. As a matter of fact I revoked the license of the Equitable in this state, but its attorney commenced an injunction suit against me in the federal courts and the injunction is a matter of record in the circuit court."

In Smart Livery.

Housemaids in livery are the latest innovation in "smart" London houses. One fashionable woman has attired her maids in neat skirts, tight fitting bodices, with natty double breasted waistcoats of yellow and black, tiny brass buttons on either side.

OBEYED

Orders of His Chiefs And, Though Arrested, Refused to Move His Engine.

Findlay, O., Nov. 20.—Chic David, aged 21, was arrested Sunday with his fireman, Harry Nichols, for obstructing a public highway. The fight, which was originally between the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad company and the Lima, Findlay and Toledo branch of the Western Ohio Traction company, has developed into a three-cornered one, of which the city of Findlay is one of the participants. The fight originated several days ago, when the Western Ohio Traction people built their lines up to both sides of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton tracks at Lima avenue. The railroad people refused to allow the traction people to build the crossing until they had signed an agreement, it is said, to be responsible for wrecks etc., which the traction people refused to do. Thereupon the railroad people sent an engine onto the crossing.

Chic Davis and Harry Nichols were put in charge of the engine Saturday morning. Officer Jack Crawford was sent out to arrest them, but David refused to leave his post.

"My orders are to remain here, and you will have to take me," he said to the officer. Crawford telephoned to Sheriff Groves and the chief of police, who drove to the scene.

"Move your engine down the line and away from the road," commanded the chief, after placing the men under arrest.

"My orders are to keep it here, and you nor nobody else can make me move it." And he kept his word.

He turned down the fire, and the engine still stands. David is a brother of Prosecuting Attorney William L. David, who is a major on the staff of General McMaken, of the Ohio National Guard.

OBITUARY

MRS. DELIA RENZ.

Mrs. Delia Renz died at 3 a. m. Monday at her home, 123 Seventh street, after a long illness.

The deceased, who was one of the best known and respected residents of this city, was the widow of Lorenz Renz, who died here in 1896.

Had she lived until Dec. 1, Mrs. Renz would have been 76 years of age. She was born in Germany in 1829, and has been a resident of this country 60 years. In 1855, she was married to Lorenz Renz in this city.

The deceased leaves three sons, Jacob and John, of Newark and Lawrence Renz, of Bowling Green, O., and three daughters, Mary Renz, Mrs. William Haptle and Mrs. Louise Baehm.

The funeral will take place at 9 a. m. Wednesday from St. Francis de Sales church, and interment will be made in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

Mrs. Renz was a life-long member of the Catholic church, and a woman beloved by all who knew her.

WASHINGTON ADAMS.

Washington Adams, who for many years served on the B. & O. road, died at his home, 391 Eastern avenue, Saturday evening at 8:40 o'clock, after a lingering illness. His death resulted from a stroke of paralysis sustained seven years ago. The deceased is survived by a wife, two sons and one daughter. The funeral services will take place from the late home at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. J. B. Bovey officiating. Interment at Cedar Hill cemetery.

REV. HENRY BUSHNELL.

Rev. Henry Bushnell, formerly of Granville, died Saturday at midnight at his Westerville home of pneumonia. The deceased is survived by a sister, Mrs. Johnson, with whom he made his home, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Leonard Bushnell, of New Bedford, Mass. Funeral services will be held at Westerville at 9:30 Tuesday morning, and the remains will be brought to Granville, where services will be held at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon. Prof. Colwell officiating.

Rev. Mr. Bushnell was well known in Granville, having visited at the home of Dr. J. D. Thompson during the recent Centennial.

AT BRUSSELS

The Foreign Engineers Will Meet. Canal Estimates.

Washington, Nov. 20.—By a vote of 8 to 5 the board of consulting engineers, which was appointed by President Roosevelt to determine upon the kind of a canal that should be constructed across the Isthmus of Panama, decided to recommend a sea-level waterway instead of a lock canal. Such a project, it is estimated, will cost from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 more than a lock canal, and take from five to seven years longer to complete. In other words, the total expenditure on the stupendous work will approximate $300,000,000, and it will require at least 15 years to finish it. The report goes to the canal commission, thence to the president. Final action on the subject will be taken by congress.

The engineers decided to substitute Brussels for Paris as the meeting place of the foreign members next January. The reason for this decision is that Brussels is more conveniently situated for several of the members

Judge Betha in Chicago today rendered a decision in the case of the interstate commerce commission against the Chicago and Great Western railroad and seven other railroads, ruling in favor of the defendants. The case involved the rate on live stock and live stock products shipped from Missouri river points to Chicago. It was charged that the rate was too high. The decision is based on supreme court rulings.

STATE RESTS IN HARBISON TRIAL

DEFENSE PUT IN A NUMBER OF CHARACTER WITNESSES MONDAY.

Evidence Too Thin Son of Defendant For Wife—Progress of Youngstown Trial.

Youngstown, Nov. 20.—In the Harbison murder trial today chief of police McDowell reviewed the case. He said Harbison admitted killing Bergaman, supposing him to be another man.

"Harbison was excited and nervous, crying and sobbing when I talked with him," said the chief. "He said he thought Pete Laughlin was in the house. He was sorry it was Bergaman he had killed. He said that he had gone there to get evidence as to whether his wife was true or false." The state then closed its case.

With the state resting this morning the defense put on a host of character witnesses. The defense is trying to prove that great love the defendant had for his wife, causing him to go to extravagant ends to furnish his home and that, when his home was broken up, it destroyed his reason, also to prove that lately the defendant had been incapable to perform his work.

While little Lolo Phillips acted as flower girl. The wedding march and incidental music during the ceremony were played by Miss Mabel Elsass. The bride was carried in white persian lawn and garlanded with chrysanthemums. Green and white constituted the color scheme. After the ceremony a three course dinner was served. The table was decorated with ferns and the center piece was a basket of fruit. The happy couple received many valuable and useful presents. Among those present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Orr, parents of the groom, Miss Bessie McGinnis, Messrs. Grover Orr and August Hess, of Newark. Miss Mabel Elsass, of Waynesburg, Ohio; Mr. Scott Kregar, of Gratiot; Misses Ocie Starkey, Daisy Foster, Mr. Harry Walser and Mr. and Mrs. Noah Walser, of Thornville, O. The newly wedded couple will go to housekeeping in Newark in the near future, the groom having accepted a position in the Seymour Rexroth shoe store.

SIGNS OF MUTINY

Shown by Russian Soldiers on Transports For Vladivostok.

Nagasaki, Nov. 20.—Five hundred Russian soldiers who were taken prisoners by the Japanese during the late war, and who are bound for Vladivostok on board the Russian volunteer fleet steamers Vladimir and Boronell, have shown signs of mutiny. The Russian officers applied to the Japanese government for troops and police officers, and 100 constables boarded the Boronell. Four Japanese torpedo-boat destroyers surrounded the two vessels. Vice Admiral Rojstevsky is on board the Boronell.

Zemstvo Congress.

Moscow, Nov. 20.—The zemstvo congress, presided over by M. Ivan Petrunkevich, president of the Moscow Agricultural society, began its sessions. Thirty-nine governments were represented, and in addition there were representatives from 32 municipalities and 22 Polish delegates in attendance. Several of the speakers referred to the irreparable loss sustained by the death of Prince Serghius Trouetzkoy, former president of the Moscow zemstvo, which occurred Oct. 12 in St. Petersburg.

Work of Mobs at Vladivostok. Tokyo, Nov. 20.—An eyewitness of the recent riot at Vladivostok, who has arrived at Nagasaki, reports that nearly half the city was burned and that 600 of the garrison were killed. That the jail was thrown open and that General Kappek is missing. The damage done is estimated at $250,000. Soldiers from Harbin are reported to have joined the rioters.

Anti-Jewish Outbreak.

London, Nov. 20.—The Bucharest correspondent of the Daily Chronicle reports that on Saturday anti-Jewish rioting took place in Kishineff resulting in pillage and arson, and that many persons were killed.

Against Eight-Hour Strike.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 20.—The conservative leaders in the council of workmen carried a resolution against any attempt to introduce a movement for an eight-hour day.

It looks very much as if the Republican politicians in Pennsylvania have some notion of what the result of the recent election meant.

The time of year is again at hand when early Christmas shopping is advised. But in spite of experiences people are never ready to avoid the rush.

Governor Pennypacker says that he is poorer than when he accepted the office of governor of Pennsylvania. He and the state are in position to exchange sympathies.

Two men out in Indianapolis traded wives, and the men and the wives were brought into court and fined a dollar each. The justice who imposed the fines seems to have sized up the bunch as a cheap lot.

The New York Tribune is of the opinion that there isn't a political boss in America whose boss-ship wasn't perceptibly weakened by the work at the polls. The bosses have learned the lesson that it is well to let go when in full bloom and at the height of their glory.

The carrier on one of the rural free delivery routes in Kansas has been using a motor-cycle on his route all summer and fall. The machine is said to have given him plenty of excitement and enabled him to cover the route in less than half the time he could have driven over it with a horse. This incident leads the Youngstown Vindicator to remark that "the man who could stand it to deliver the mail on a rural route in Kansas for the best part of a year using a motor-cycle could stand the jolt the Ohio Republican machine got on the 7th inst."

The Democratic and Republican representation in the next legislature will be well worth the watching from the opening till the close of the session. There will be some fellows in the senate chamber and hall of the house of representatives who will think it not only their privilege but worth their while to speak their opinions on matters before the bodies. The Seventy-seventh general assembly should be what Ohio has not had for years—a deliberative body, one for which its work was not laid out for it in Cincinnati and telephoned to Columbus at the state's expense.

A Republican paper expresses the hope that Governor Pattison will do what Governor Herrick promised to do—clean the statehouse of the lobby. That's a job a good many Republicans can help in. There are some Republicans about the statehouse who neglected their jobs to spend their time in the halls of legislation working for the enactment at the last session of bills known as administration measures. If Gov. Herrick had kicked the lobbyists out of the State House then it would have saved him a great deal of trouble later on. The trouble with Herrick was that his later professions and promises regarding the lobby were wholly inconsistent with his conduct.

New York and Pennsylvania each come quite close to it, however, but with the exception of the letter "X."

AMUSEMENTS

"THE MAYOR OF TOKIO."
From all reports Richard Carle has scored the hit of his stage career in his new farcical opera, "The Mayor of Tokio," which will be seen here at the Auditorium to-morrow night, Nov. 21.

Mr. Carle is playing at present, preliminary to his New York opening, which will occur on the evening of Monday, Dec. 4.

The cast of "The Mayor of Tokio" is the strongest that has ever appeared in Mr. Carle's support and he has a chorus of strikingly beautiful girls, who were titled by a Boston dramatic writer, "The Blue Ribbon Chorus of America."

Aside from the personal hit achieved by Mr. Carle, an extremely favorable impression has been made by nine little girls who are known as the "Peanut Ballet."

ROSE CECILIA SHAY

Celebrated Grand Opera Prima Dona Here Next Thursday As "Paul Jones."

The discovery of the body of Paul Jones in an abandoned grave yard in Paris has caused a tremendous revival of interest in Jones' wonderful exploits. In the naval library at Washington there is an abundance of Paul Jones literature, an exhibition of Paul Jones portraits, old and new, pictures of naval engagements in which he participated, autograph letters and a little library of books concerning him, including some rare and interesting material.

Besides the memories of his battles Jones has left a heritage to the American navy of famous sayings. Any of these might do for an inscription to his monument which is soon to be erected.

"Fire and be damned!" he shouted to Captain Pearson of the Serapis, when the latter threatened to sink the Bon Homme Richard, and his later reply to Pearson's request that he surrender, "I have not yet begun to fight."

"I can never renounce the glorious title of a citizen of the United States," said Jones when Empress Catherine of Russia made him an admiral in her navy.

"I have ever looked out for the honor of the American flag," is another of his sayings, also when asked what kind of ships he wanted he said: "I do not wish to have command of any ship that does not sail fast for I intend to go in harm's way."

All this immense revival of interest in Jones, who has been so justly named the father of the American navy, has caused one other revival which is of intense interest to theatregoers and lovers of comic opera in particular. Matt Gran has placed once more before the public the greatest comic opera success of its time, which was named after the great naval hero, and which is supposed to be at least partially founded on a love affair of his. Rose Cecilia Shay, the celebrated grand opera prima donna has been selected to enact the title role of Paul Jones.

Miss Shay is perhaps better qualified to fill this difficult role than any other feminine star on the American stage. She is said to equal if not surpass Agnes Huntington in the part, and it will be remembered that it was that Miss Huntington won her greatest success, setting London and New York wild for a number of consecutive seasons.

"Paul Jones" will be seen at the Auditorium next Thursday night, Nov. 23.

TROLLEY LINES

Lima, O., Nov. 20.—There has been a trackage agreement effected which makes for mutual purposes a triple alliance of the Toledo, Bowling Green and Southern, the Western Ohio, from Findlay to Lima and Piquette, and the Dayton and Troy, from Piquette to Dayton. A conference for last details is to be held Tuesday, when interchange of both freight and passenger business is to be discussed as the Findlay-Lima link will be completed early in December and through express and passenger business inaugurated between Toledo and Dayton.

The School-Morgan inspection party are expected here next week, when a route will be looked over for a Columbus connection out of Lima. One of the Appleyard properties is expected to serve the greater portion of this link, with a few connecting miles built either from here to Bellefontaine, Kenton or Marion.

DAY'S BUSINESS IN COURT HOUSE

MRS. GEORGE LOVELESS PETITIONS PROBATE JUDGE FOR A DIVORCE.

Motion In Vanatta Suit Against Railway—Property Transfers and General Court News.

On May 29, 1902, Miss Mainie Horn was married to George Loveless, a well known farmer, residing in the western part of this county. Soon after the marriage, Loveless left his wife, and now she has commenced proceedings in the probate court for divorce. She charges her husband with failing to provide her with clothing or any of the common necessities of life. She also charged him with wilful absence for more than three years, and says that he is now living in Clark county, Ohio. She asks for a decree of divorce and restoration to her maiden name of Mainie Horn. L. Leamon, attorney for the plaintiff.

Want Petition More Definite.

In the case of Wm. Vanatta on the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St. Louis railroad company, the defendants have filed a motion in the common pleas court. They ask the court to require the plaintiff to make his petition definite and certain by stating to what extent the horse was injured and the nature and character of the injury. Kibler & Kibler and F. A. Dunbar, attorneys for defendant.

Johnson Is Acquitted.

In the case of State of Ohio vs. John M. Johnson, indicted for criminal assault, the jurors returned a verdict Monday morning, finding the defendant not guilty. Fitzgibbon, Smythe & Smythe attorneys.

SECOND TRIAL OF SENATOR BURTON

BEGAN MONDAY IN FEDERAL COURT AT ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Officers Arrive From Washington, D. C., to Testify Against the United States Senator.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 20.—The second trial of United States Senator Burton of Kansas, began today before Judge Vandeventer, in the federal court.

Col. D. M. Ransdell of Indianapolis, sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate, arrived Sunday in response to a summons to appear against Burton. He was not a witness at the first trial. With Ransdell came E. W. Chatterton, secretary to chief postoffice inspector Vickers and Cashier Arthur Brice of the Riggs National Bank, upon which institution, it is claimed, the Rialto Grain company made out checks to the Kansas senator.

At Chicago Mrs. Mary Frank, 54, committed suicide this morning by taking Paris green. She was the mother of 14 children and had been deserted by her husband.

MOUSE IN HER HAT

Finally Becomes Entangled in Woman's Hair and is Gotten Out With Difficulty.

Marion, Nov. 20.—A mouse caused a panic Sunday at a revival at Wesley M. E. church. The rodent had made its nest between the lining and crown of a hat worn by Mrs. Wallace Wynn and remained perfectly quiet until she began to sing. Suddenly, she realized that there was something alive in her hat. She tried to take off the troublesome headgear without attracting attention, but the mouse broke through the hat lining and became enmeshed in the coils of her hair. For a few minutes she struggled wildly with her hat and finally, in desperation yanked off the hat and shook the mouse from her hair.

Several women screamed and there was a general skurrying to places of safety and gathering of skirts. With the excitement over Mrs. Wynn fell back into her seat almost exhausted. The pastor, Rev. C. E. Rowley, restored order, in a few minutes and the service continued.

DENY CHARGES.

Municipal Councilmen of Isle of Pines Issue a Statement.

Havana, Nov. 20.—The municipal council of the Isle of Pines has issued a long statement denying the charges made by J. H. Keenan of Pittsburgh and others that the island is in a condition bordering on anarchy and is without proper courts, schools, facilities for the protection of life and property, etc. The statement claims that these have all been provided and that, although various public improvements are necessary, the government has done more than the small revenues of the island warranted.

DENISON JUNIORS HAVE A BANQUET

KITCHEN SHOWER IS GIVEN IN HONOR OF MRS. TOPPING FROM JAPAN.

Newark People Saw the Western Reserve Game Saturday—College Town Personal News.

Granville, O., Nov. 20.—On Saturday evening the young men of the Junior class of Denison University entertained the young ladies of the class quite elaborately with a banquet at the Buxton house. For several years past it has been the custom to hold a Junior banquet, all of which have been successful, and the class of 1907 has proven itself a social rival of the others and has come out with honors.

The dining room was very artistically and prettily decorated, the numerous college pennants being particularly in evidence among the decorations, and adding considerably to the delightful college aspect of the scene.

After the menu had been served, the following toasts were responded to, Mr. W. G. Spencer being the toastmaster of the evening. All the toasts rang with loyal praises to the Junior class, and were creditable and interesting:

Class History Ida Wickenden
Class Spirit Leoni W. Hoyt
107 in Athletics F. H. Cox
"Who is Who" J. W. Beattie
"Our Boys" Jean Moore
"Our Girls" R. W. Luse
"Twenty Years Hence" Mary McKibben

The following menu was served:

Oyster Cocktail Wafers
Mit Brokruenen gebackene austern
Heiss Kleines Kuchen
Pickles Kraftbruehe
Cochon de lait pour rotir
Pomme de terre a la Francaise,
Petits pois a la fois gras,
Marmalade de pommes,
Waldorf salad Cake Fruit Biscuit
Ice Cream Bon Bons
Coffee.

On Saturday afternoon, a number of the friends of Mrs. Topping, the well-known Baptist missionary from Japan, gave a kitchen shower for her at her home on Burg street. Mrs. Topping's sojourn in America is not for long and her residence here is but temporary, so her friends, realizing the household needs of even temporary housekeeping and out of gratitude to Mrs. Topping for her many services to Granville people, on Saturday prepared a very enjoyable little party, for her, at the same time showering her with a great many articles, which will be of use to her in her house-keeping. The afternoon was most delightfully spent by all.

A large number of Newark people attended the Western Reserve-Denison foot-ball game on Beaver field Saturday, and all were jubilant over Denison's victory. It was one of the cleanest and most hotly contested games witnessed here.

Mrs. S. E. Morrow visited friends and relatives in Johnstown last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Wilson, of Franklin county, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in the village. Mr. Wilson is a prominent farmer of our neighboring county.

Prof. Colwell was in Newark Saturday.

The frosts during the last week have been the most severe that we have had this fall. Several mornings the ground was frozen hard enough to bear up a man, and there was a very heavy coat of frost on the grass and trees. Everything that had been unthoughtfully left out of doors was cooked to a rich brown. Quite a number of Granville people lost some valuable plants, which they had forgotten to move into the house.

Mr. Frank Amos, of Cambridge, was the guest of his Sig brothers, Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Allison Landacre, of Cincinnati, was the guest of James Adair, at the Phi Gam house Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Lillian Lawrence, of Columbus, who has been visiting friends here for several days, returned home on Monday, after having had a very enjoyable visit.

William Moore, of Lancaster, was here on business Saturday.

Mrs. Burton Case entertained a few friends informally but very pleasantly Saturday evening.

"I suffered for months from sore throat. Electric Oil cured me in twenty-four hours." M. S. Gist, Hawesville, Ky.

PRINCE CHARLES

Formally Notified of His Election to the Norwegian Throne.

Copenhagen, Nov. 20.—The delegation appointed by the Norwegian storting to communicate to Prince Charles the formal announcement of his election as king of Norway arrived here and was received by Premier Christensen, the presidents of the upper and the lower house of the riksdag and the Norwegian minister. The members of the delegation, which is headed by President Berner of the storting, were cheered enthusiastically by a great crowd. Prince Charles is the recipient of thousands of telegrams of congratulation.

Sarah Bernhardt, the divine, set Chicago fussing about her long before she arrived in the city to-day on her 18-hour trip from New York.

My Most Trusted Employees:

Said the head of a large establishment recently, are those who have saving bank accounts.

Why? Because they are men who have good habits; because they lose very little time; because they desire to provide as well as possible for their families; because it is their aim to work steadily and "lay something by" in case sickness or dull times overtake them.

We have many hundreds of such accounts.

A NEW MYSTERY AT MT. VERNON, O.

PAINTER FRED LOWMAN SHOT
IN HIS OWN YARD SUNDAY MORNING.

Why Very Serious As Bullet Entered his Stomach—Who Fired
the Shot?

Mt. Vernon, O., Nov. 20.—Fred Lowman, a painter, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded in a peculiar manner Sunday morning. He got up and dressed and went out into the yard after a pitcher of water. Suddenly a shot rang out, and when the occupant of the house reached the scene Lowman was lying unconscious on the ground, the blood flowing from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

The shooting is a mystery, as Lowman has not regained consciousness since the shooting and cannot tell how it happened. It is the supposition that Lowman had a scuffle with some one, as his overcoat was also lying on the ground. The wound is a very serious one, as the bullet penetrated the stomach.

FINE ADDRESS

Given Sunday Afternoon at Y. M. C. A. By Rev. McDaniel, of Zanesville, O.

The Y. M. C. A. afternoon meeting, was addressed Sunday by the Rev. Asa McDaniel of Zanesville.

Rev. Mr. McDaniel gave an excellent address upon the subject, "The Unchanging Creed."

He showed how in our every day life constantly changing conditions are met with, and pointed out the fact that there is an unchangeable effort in man to find that which is unchangeable and that the only source of unchangeable creed is Jesus Christ.

He also pointed out the manner in which all of the books of the Bible showed Christ at the representation of the unchanging creed.

The music at the service was furnished by Miss Augusta Haakke, who sang Wiegand's "Awake, My Soul," in a beautiful and impressive manner.

BLOODHOUNDS

Owned By Dr. D. M. Smith Poisoned
By Unknown Person Sunday Night—Doctor Still Has Five Dogs.

Dr. D. M. Smith, of this city, was notified early Monday morning that two of his valuable bloodhound pups that were being kept about eight miles north of the city, had died during Sunday night from the effects of a dose of strychnine administered by some unknown parties, who evidently stood in fear of the law. Dr. Smith is all broken up over the death of his dogs, which gave promise of being unusually fine trailers. They were in the best of health, and only Sunday afternoon were worked for a while. If the perpetrator of the dastardly deed is discovered he will be made to suffer the extreme penalty of the law.

The doctor still has left five good trailers, which he will keep under lock and key and attend to personally.

DRIVER PALED

When Informed That the Stray Trunk
He Was Hauling Around Contained $11,000.

New York, Nov. 20.—Alice Candy, formerly maid in the family of the late Joseph Jefferson, and to whom Mr. Jefferson bequeathed $5,000, walked into the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Police Station last night and told the desk sergeant she had lost a trunk.

"That so?" said the sergeant rather indifferently, without interrupting his work.

"Yes," she replied, "and it contains about $14,000 worth of valuables."

The woman said it had been confused with another trunk in its removal from 255 West One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street.

The police searched hard for three hours and finally found the trunk on an express wagon in One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. The driver was sitting idly on his seat smoking a pipe. When a policeman told him what the trunk contained he turned pale and his pipe went out.

"Go, I've been hauling this thing around all day, and anybody might have stolen it several times."

The police examined the trunk and found gold bonds, jewelry and clothing valued at about $14,000 in it.

ALL ROUND MAN

Subject of an Excellent Sermon Given at First Methodist Church By the Rev. L. C. Sparks.

Rev. L. C. Sparks, pastor of the First M. E. church this city, delivered an excellent address Sunday night upon the subject, "The All Round Man."

Rev. Mr. Sparks took as an example of this sort, the young man, David, showing how he possessed some great abilities and talents and that even with these he was a wonderful man in other ways. He showed how though he was a man of mild and artistic soul and temperament such as to cool the wrath of the king, Saul, with his wonderful playing upon the harp, yet he possessed courage and the other qualities which combine to make a great leader of men, and was placed in command of the army proving himself an able leader.

Rev. Mr. Sparks said that this was too much of an age of specialists and that what the world needed was more "all round" men, instead of the unevenly developed character, so often met with to-day. Rev. Sparks' sermon was an eloquent appeal for the higher general culture of the mind and soul.

Mr. Vahn, a member of the Dr. Derr lecture company, sang "Fear Not, O Israel," as a tenor solo, with beautiful effect.

BRONCHITIS

Druggist Frank D. Hall Tells the People Quickest Means to Cure It.

"Asked one day in his store the question, 'What is good for bronchitis?' Mr. Hall, our well known druggist, answered, 'For years old fashioned cod liver oil has been known to possess the most remarkable curative and healing properties for throat, bronchial and lung troubles of anything known to medicine, but on account of the grease which enveloped its curative principles, it has been impossible for many people to take enough of it into their systems to combat a thoroughly settled disease without clogging the system and upsetting the stomach.'

"Now, however," continued Mr. Hall, "we have Vinol, which contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' liver, without a drop of oil or grease to upset the stomach and retard its work, and physicians agree that it is the greatest cure for all throat, bronchial and lung troubles known to medicine."

Miss Anna Ray writes us that after suffering for five years with bronchitis, and trying all kinds of medicines without relief, Vinol cured her, and we have hundreds of just such letters.

We wish every person suffering from chronic colds, coughs, bronchitis, and every aged, weak, or convalescent person who needs a healing, strength-creating and blood-making tonic would try Vinol on our guarantee to return the purchase money if it fails."—Frank D. Hall, Druggist.

Thanks Whalers Are Doomed.
Senate, Wash., Nov. 20.—Captain Francis Tittle, formerly in command of the revenue cutter Bear, states that from what he has learned from Captain Bodfish of the whaler William Baynes, there is absolutely no chance for the whaling fleet to escape. In his opinion the ships will be crushed in the ice. The crews will have to desert the ships and make for the McKean reef. The fleet is reported to be on the coast of Banks Land, which is the last case of the McKean. He does not think a relief expedition could aim them in any way.

LOVE'S LOTTERY IS CANCELLED

SCHUMANN-HEINK'S VOICE HAS FAILED OWING TO ILLNESS.

Opera Star Returns From Cleveland to New York On Account of a Severe Cold.

Mme. Schumann-Heink, who delighted a large audience that crowded the Auditorium one night last season, will not appear here Wednesday night in "Love's Lottery," as the engagement has just been cancelled. Messrs. Johnson & Matthews say that the large number who have bought tickets for the engagement will have their money refunded if they will call at the box office in the Auditorium.

The reason for cancelling this engagement is Mme. Schumann-Heink's illness. The following message from Cleveland gives the facts:

Cleveland, O., Nov. 20.—The season of the "Love's Lottery" company, of which Madame Schumann-Heink was the star, was closed here Saturday night and Madame Schumann-Heink and her husband left for New York. Madame Schumann-Heink was unable to sing at the performance Saturday night, and her physician advised her to refrain from using her voice in opera for the time being, because of a cold she had contracted while in this city. Miss Clara Maentz understudy to Madame Schumann-Heink, sang the part of "Lina" Saturday night.

New York, Nov. 20.—The sudden termination of Madame Schumann-Heink's tour in the comic opera "Love's Lottery" in Cleveland Saturday and the disbandment of the company was not unexpected by friends of the singer and theatrical people here. Mme. Schumann-Heink has suffered constantly from throat trouble since the beginning of the season and on several occasions was forced to retire from the cast for days at a time and permit an understudy to sing her part. The contract has worried much over the attitude of the German government which refuses to make her an exception to the law which forbids her from coming into the possession of property and money belonging to her, but held in the name of her husband, who died a year or more ago in Germany. Mme. Schumann-Heink's home was known as Villa Pina, Potsdam Bei Dusseldorf. The German government permitted the singer to bring her four youngest children to this country. They are now at her house at Ludlow, near this city. The general belief is expressed that when Mme. Schumann-Heink appears again it will either be in grand opera or concert work.

Of Childhood Are the Bed Companions of Mrs. Place, Made Insane By Nursing Sick.

Lima, O., Nov. 20.—A pathetic story is unfolded by the case of Mrs. Susan Place, aged 47, who has been adjudged insane by the probate court.

Mrs. Place is a resident of Spencerville, this county, and an earnest Christian woman of a loving disposition. For months members of her family have been on the sick list, and on her devolved the task of nursing them back to health. In doing so her mind became unbalanced.

Mrs. Place imagines herself back in childhood and she insists each night on taking her little dishes, toys and dolls to bed with her. She only grows violent when these are denied her.

It Is Thought Killed Miller and Olinde, Who Have Been Missing For a Year.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20. — In a letter received by George W. Knox of this city the fate of Henry Miller and Gus Olinde, who left here on an expedition to Tiburon island in the Gulf of California nearly a year ago, and who have never been heard from, is probably disclosed. On the desolate shores of the Gulf of California, near a deserted Indian village, a wandering wanderer has just found the remains of Miller and Olinde, a back of practical science which belonged to Captain Olinde, and a pair of dried human hands, which may have been of one of the unfortunate men. A few feet away was found the charred remains of a large fish, and a few feet from the fish was a small piece of an Indian war club. It is believed the men were slain by hostile Indians who thought this portion of the Great Game Played On Tenth Street Grounds Sunday Morning--Moore Ran 75 Yards for Touchdown.

The B. & O. football eleven met defeat at the hands of the Owls Sunday morning on the Tenth street grounds. The score was 15 to nothing and the railroaders had but little show in the game. The nearest they came to the Owl's goal was on the Owl's goal was on the 35 yard line. The game was featured by Moore's 75 yard run for a touchdown and Ridenbaugh's run of 50 yards for another five points.

Russell and Ingle were the officials and McDonald kept time during the game.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON

KING OF ALL DISEASES

To Contagious Blood Poison rightfully belongs the name King of all Diseases. It is the most powerful of all human ailments—corrupting every part of the body and wrecking and ruining the lives of those unfortunate enough to contract it. When the first sign appears in the form of an insignificant sore or ulcer, few persons realize that the deadly virus has entered the blood; but so potent is the poison that one drop will vitiate and pollute the purest and healthiest blood, and in a short time the degrading and horrible symptoms begin to appear. The mouth and throat ulcerate, the glands in the neck and groins swell, the hair and eye-brows fall out, copper-colored spots appear on the body, and in the latter stages of the disease the poison even works down and destroys the bones. No other disease is so highly contagious, and many have contracted it and suffered its awful consequences through a friendly hand-shake, handling the clothing of one afflicted with it, or drinking from the same vessel. S. S. S., The King of Blood Purifiers, is the only cure for Contagious Blood Poison. It goes down into the circulation and forces out every particle of the virus. It is nature's antidote for this peculiar poison, and cures the disease in all its stages, and cures it permanently. S. S. S. does not hide or cover up any of the poison to break out in future years, but so completely eradicates it from the blood that no signs are seen again. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, and costs $1.00 for proof that it contains a particle of mineral of any kind. Book with instructions for home treatment and any medical advice you desire will be furnished by our physicians without charge.

Delaware High School Almost Annihilate Knox County's Team--Whipped Before Second Half Finish.

Delaware, O., Nov. 20.—Outplayed in every department of the game Saturday and completely exhausted, Mt. Vernon High School was forced to stop the game in the second half with the score of 39 to 0 in favor of Delaware High School. The local team played fast and were never held for down, making from five to fifty yards in every play.

Captain Bogardus of the Mt. Vernon team was hurt after three minutes of play in the first half and Mt. Vernon's only substitute was sent into the game. Left Half Owens was the next victim of Delaware's terrible battering and was taken from the field. As the team then had but ten men, they admitted defeat and surrendered to the Delaware High School eleven.

RODE PILOT

Mother and Child Were Struck By Train, Then Were Carried 200 Feet.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 20.—Carried 200 feet on the pilot of an engine, with her babe in her arms, Mrs. Joseph W. Davis, wife of a dairyman, residing north of Muncie, had a remarkable escape from death Sunday.

Mrs. Davis, with her two children, was driving into the city in the dairy wagon, and at the C. I. and E. crossing on the Wheeling pike, because of the closed sides of the wagon, failed to hear an approaching train. The engine struck the wagon broadside, completely demolishing it. In a manner almost miraculous Mrs. Davis, holding one child, found herself on the "cowcatcher" of the engine. She remained enough pressure of mind to hold on in her perilous position. The engine was stopped about 200 feet from the crossing, when the engineer and fireman, expecting to find the mangled remains of the victims of their engine, were surprised to see Mrs. Davis step from the pilot and, her mother instinct first, soothe the frightened child in her arms.

When the engine struck the wagon the horse jumped forward and the other child, a little girl, was thrown by the roadside several feet away, but was not hurt. The horse was knocked down, but not injured.

Ran From A Grizzly

A Race Between Man and Bear Through Deep Snow.

It Was a Serious Question For a Time Whether the Hunter Would Get Away From His Pursuer.

While camping and hunting in the far north an adventurer who relates his experiences in the Washington Post had an exciting meeting with a grizzly. He says:

We had been climbing for four days from the lake to the barren lands at the top, where the whole world seems flat but for the little swales in it, where the willows grow and the moose feed. It is a good country for meat, and it was our job to kill meat for a big mining outfit down below.

When we reached the top it began to snow, so that we had to camp in the little bull pines on the very edge of the barrens, and that night eighteen inches of snow fell on the flat. I was inclined to grumble. I had come to hunt, but Rubie, who was with me, just put the matter in a nutshell.

"We'll move camp down to those dead pines, cap. There's a little feed in the swamp for the horse. If you feel like hunting after we've made camp, we'll just stay and hunt. It's only four miles to the place I mean."

At the end of those four miles I did not feel like anything but lying still while he cooked. Between camps it had been one long struggle from drift to drift, constantly unpacking our wretched animal to get him on to his legs again, until at last, even with his pack off, he would not get up again.

Then we picked up our loads and carried them into the nearest sheltered hollow we could find, trod down the snow and covered it up with brush from the pines, cut a big stick or two, made a roaring fire, put up the fire and hung a moose head over the fire to roast. It was lucky that we had one. We went back to see if the horse had had enough rest in the snow.

We found him frozen stiff.

"Did you notice them bear tracks as we came through the willows?" said Rubie.

"No," said I.

"Must be getting snow blind already, cap. They was big enough. I wonder how soon he'll find out the old horse? I guess I'll set that trap anyway. He's a big un by his tracks."

We spent two days in that camp, and we decided to pull out on the morning of the third. "Might as well go and see whether that b'ar has found old Mo," said Rubie.

"Shall I come along?"

"Tain't worth it unless you're dead keen to. There's mighty little chance of the b'ar."

So Rubie disappeared among the pine trees alone. I cut wood for the night, and still Rubie did not return. I was growing anxious, and the evening was growing dark, so I took my rifle and started toward the dead horse. I tripped and drove my rifle into the snow, choking the barrel of it. I left it against a tree to be called for on my way back. My eye fell on a fresh moose track and behind it a fresher track.

So that was what had happened to Rubie. He had seen the fresh sign and gone in pursuit. I might as well go and pack the bear trap in, I thought, and strolled on to do so. As soon as my eyes fell upon the carcass I knew that it had been visited. It had been dragged a yard from the frozen bed, and a great lump had been ripped from its side.

Just then something stirred in the thicket or second growth behind the dead horse. Instinctively I took a step forward to see what it was and as I did so came right out into the open.

At once the young pines, close set, and maybe six feet high, bent toward me as corn bends before the wind, a cloud of fine snow rose from them. If a shell had burst, and the dumbness of the watching world shattered by a yell of rage so fiendish so malevolent, that, old hunter as I was, my blood froze at a sound I did not recognize.

The next moment the fiend himself was upon me. A grizzly dead looks a feeble, almost pig-like beast, but a grizzly mad with rage, with every hair on end, charging across a snow field at the edge of night, looks quite another matter.

I turned and ran and as I ran heard the bear's great snorts coming closer and closer as he plowed his way through the snow, dragging the trap and the young pine to which it was attached as if the pine had been a walking stick.

I never ran harder, and I never went slower, and to this day it seems to me as if I ran that night for an hour—waded, I mean—with heart bursting efforts through that accursed snow, which seemed to hold me more than it held the bear. If I had only had snow-shoes on!

Just when I knew the drumming blood would burst my brain I caught a glimpse of our campfire through the thick bull pines on my left, and with the instinct of a beast that makes for its home to die I turned off the trail and staggered downhill. The boughs lashed me across the eyes, the logs tripped me, the snow stayed me, and then all at once I sank down, down to my armpits in a deep unseemly drift.

Like a mad thing I struggled to get out, but it was in vain. One of my feet stuck fast. It had sunk between the forks of some buried brush and was held as in a vise.

One desperate effort I made. I would have torn my limb off if I could have done so, and then I shut my eyes, the strength went out of me, and I gave in.

I dared not turn around to meet my death, but I knew that it was upon me. I heard the deep gasps of the beast behind me, the heavy flounder of him as he lurched down through the snow, the rattle and the crash of the little dry pines as his anchor log came battering through them, and as I writhed forward, face downward in the snow, a leaden weight struck me on the shoulder, a sharp pain thrilled all through me and something warm trickled slowly down my spine.

Yet another six inches I writhed away, and as I did so I could hear my clothes rending under those bone white claws.

As a wounded bird cowers before the gunner who next minute will take it up and wring its neck, so I covered while that huge mailed hand struck and strained after my life.

Twice it just scraped my shoulder, and the second time I turned, and the hot, fetid breath of the beast struck me in the face and sickened me.

Dark as the gloom was under those somber pines, the vague mass which lay almost on the top of me was darker yet—a living, raging blackness which struggled and strained toward me. In the midst were two blazing eyes and a gnashing of long, white teeth, while ever and anon the thing gathered itself together and hurled itself forward so that those curved white claws came always nearer and nearer their mark.

"LIE STILL THAR, CAP."

Then I understood, and the revulsion of feeling was so great that I swear I almost laughed.

The anchor log had jammed between two bull pines, and as long as they stood the bear was held fast as I was unless the log slipped. At that thought my blood froze again.

If the brute should tire and let the chain fall slack the log would lose its grip, and—

"Lie still thar, cap!"

Even the bear seemed to obey that calm, sharp order, turning its head with a wicked snarl toward the silent footed newcomer.

Then there was a long and awful pause, as if all nature waited, and I knew that it was snowing again, the great soft flakes drifting down through the black pines, while the little ivory bead crept up and up until it rested steadily between the eyes that glared so close to mine.

For a moment my heart stood still. Then the master voice of the rifle spoke, the startled woods quaked and there fell a great silence.

Bowser Tries Sunrise Cure

His Newest Early Rising Fad For Impaired Health Is Not a Success.

SEIZED BY ROISTERERS

And When They Let Him Go He Gets a Drubbing From Two Peddlers He Has Offended.

[Copyright, 1905, by McClure, Phillips & Co.]

M R. BOWSER had been smoking and reading for half an hour when he began to hunch around in a nervous way and clear his voice. Mrs. Bowser knew that he had something on his mind, but she let him turn it over and over until he got ready to say:

"I wonder what time the sun rises these mornings?"

"Somewhere around 4 o'clock, I believe."

He waited another five minutes and then observed:

"I was speaking to Green today about my feeling all run down, and he told me I ought to try the sunrise cure."

"What is that?"

"Why, you get up and take a walk as the sun rises. It is said that the sun for the first half hour in the morning has peculiar virtues. Green had the same feeling of lassitude that I've got, and getting up early for a week effected a perfect cure."

IT WAS A BUNGLED UP FIGURE.

"This is the first I have heard about any feeling of lassitude. If you are feeling that way, why not go to a doctor and get a tonic?"

"Why not go to a doctor and be hurried to my grave? Haven't I paid out tens of thousands of dollars to doctors, and have they ever done me the least good? I haven't said anything about this feeling because I didn't want to frighten you, but the time has come when I must do something. I have no more appetite than a sparrow, and I would hardly go across the street to pick up a dollar."

As he had come running up the steps on reaching home that evening and as he had eaten a hearty 6 o'clock dinner Mrs. Bowser could hardly reconcile his statements. She sighed and waited for further developments.

"And so I think I'll begin in the morning and take the sunrise cure."

"Very well."

"You—you think it's all right, don't you?"

"Certainly. Yes, by all means get up at daylight and get out where the first beams of the rising sun will fall upon you. It may be the means of saving your life."

A flush came to Mr. Bowser's face as he thought she spoke in sarcasm, but after a moment he decided that she was sincere, and he forgave her and said that he would attend to waking himself up at half past 3 in the morning. He would try the sunrise cure for a week, and if it benefited him he would expect her to walk out with him thereafter. Things were left in this shape, and 9 o'clock saw the gas turned out and the Bowser family in bed. Mr. Bowser hunted up an old alarm clock and set it for the hour he wanted to arise and went to sleep thinking of red suns and dewy meadows. At exactly half past 10 the Russian and Japanese fleets came together with a whirr-r-r and lifted him out of bed with the exclamation:

"By the eyebrows of the Cardiff giant, but what on earth is going on in this house?"

"It is your old alarm clock that is going on," answered Mrs. Bowser as she got her breath.

So it was. No one but a jeweler or a cook can set an alarm clock and be sure that it will go off at the right hour.

Mr. Bowser lifted it up and gave it a swat against the wall and then rose at it and growling got back into bed. His faith in the sunrise cure was shaken for a moment, but then he remembered that alarm clocks and sunrises were two different things and decided not to be discouraged. The clock ticked away on the stand beside him, the crickets sang in the wet grass outside, and the night hummed along until the bells struck midnight. The sound aroused the ambition of the clock. It didn't propose to take a back seat for any church bell around that neighborhood, and so it turned loose and made things lively. Two sleepers awoke—two scared people jumped out of bed—but it was Mr. Bowser's voice that was heard saying:

"Now may I be turned into a huckleberry before I stand up more of this! Woman, you must have given that clock a shake!"

"I was sound asleep," protested Mrs. Bowser.

"Then that old yaller eyed cat of yours was purring around here and started it off to spite me, and I'll have her life!"

"Better throw the clock out of the window and wake yourself up when it's time. If you keep the hour on your mind you'll wake up all right."

Mr. Bowser walked out into the hall and gave the clock a heave into the darkness downstairs. When it landed it set up a new whirr and kept it going for ten minutes, and when the strains died away it was like the last sigh of a lost soul. Sleep came again, but at 2 o'clock the sunrise man was out of bed to see what time it was; also at a quarter to 3; also at a quarter past; also at half past. At the latter hour there were signs of daylight, and he began to dress.

It was his private opinion while dressing that Green or any other man who got up to take the sunrise cure was an ass, but after getting downstairs and outdoors and hearing the rumble of the milk wagons he felt better about it. He sat on the front steps until day had fully dawned and until a policeman had come along and asked him if he had roosted there all night, and then he started for a walk in the suburbs. Green didn't claim that the sun had any better show out there, but he wanted all there was in it. He hadn't walked two blocks when an old tramp with straw in his hair, who had turned out of some alley, came along and halted to say:

"It's what brought me where I am today."

"What do you mean?"

"Turning out at this ungodly hour of the morning to get a nip. Drop it, old man. Drop it or it will drop you."

At the next crossing a milkman tried to run over him, and a policeman looked at him suspiciously and shook his head, and when he had gone five blocks he encountered three roisterers who had been out on an all night lark and were weaving along arm in arm and singing at the top of their voices.

"Shay, old man—shay!" they called out in chorus.

"Well, what is it?"

"Let'er feller have a closer look at zhat run blossom nose of yours, will you? How long did it take you to bring out zhe color?"

Mr. Bowser would have got away without a row, but the trio grabbed hold of him, and in the struggle all went down together, and when he finally managed to pull loose his coat was ripped up the back and his necktie missing. He at first headed for home, but after going a few paces he made up his mind to see it out. The sun was rising blood red, and what he had to say to Mrs. Bowser would keep for another hour.

In fifteen minutes he reached a wide expanse of commons, and there he stood and swelled out his chest and breathed in the morning air and let the bright orb of day hit him between the eyes. It was glorious. It was an elixir. It was worth a dollar a minute to his health. He could feel the thrill of returning health—he was feeling it—when two truck peddlers came along on their way into town to whoop and yell and shriek and wake everybody up. When they had reached Mr. Bowser they halted.

"Same old coon that threatened to break my jaw a month ago because I holered in front of his house," whispered one.

"The same old crank that offered to kick me out of his yard last Wednesday," added the other.

"Let's go for him!"

Then the sun—the rising sun—the blood red sun—the health giving sun—the sun that Green had recommended for lassitude—witnessed another episode in the career of Bowser. He fought well and gamely, but the beaten prevailed, and it was a bungled up figure that Mrs. Bowser and the cat welcomed at the gate.

"What in heaven's name has happened?"

"Woman!"

"Is this the sunrise cure?"

"Woman, behold your work."

"How my work?"

"Come inside the house. I can only stop a few minutes, but our respective lawyers can afterward arrange all about the alimony. I understand all—al, and the dead line has been reached at last!"

Perils of Proverbs.

An Indianapolis schoolmaster has learned something of the perils of proverbs for the youthful mind. "Now, boys," he said, "remember it is the early bird that catches the worm."

Next day a lad with a tear stained face sat in the class room.

"What's the matter, Tommy?" asked the teacher.

"Please, sir, you said it was the early bird that got the worm."

"Yes."

"Well, father thrashed me!"

"What for, my boy?"

"Cos, sir, I let our canary out early this morning and it never came back with the worm."

Backache, "The Blues"

Both Symptoms of Organic Derangement in Women—Thousands of Sufferers Find Relief.

How often do we hear women say: "It seems as though my back would break," or "Don't speak to me, I am all out of sorts?" These significant remarks prove that the system requires attention.

Backache and "the blues" are direct symptoms of an inward trouble which will sooner or later declare itself. It may be caused by diseased kidneys or some uterine derangement. Nature requires assistance and at once, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instantly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women. It has been the standby of intelligent American women for twenty years, and the ablest specialists agree that it is the most universally successful remedy for woman's ills known to medicine.

The following letters from Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Cotrely are among the many thousands which Mrs. Pinkham has received this year from those whom she has relieved.

Surely such testimony is convincing. Mrs. J. G. Holmes, of Larimore, North Dakota, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— I have suffered everything with backache and womb trouble. I let the trouble run on until my system was in such a condition that I was unable to be about, and then it was I commenced to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If I had only known how much suffering I would have saved. I should have taken it months sooner—for a few weeks' treatment made me well and strong. My backache and headache are all gone and I suffer no pain at my menstrual periods, whereas before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered intense pain.

Mrs. Emma Cotrely, 109 East 12th Street, New York City, writes:

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing down feeling, inflammation (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unequalled endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any substitute.

FREE ADVICE TO WOMEN.

Remember, every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her symptoms she does not understand. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., her advice is free and cheerfully given to every ailing woman who asks for it. Her advice and medicine have restored to health more than one hundred thousand women.

HOSTILE INDIANS

It Is Thought Killed Miller and Olinde, Who Have Been Missing For a Year.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—In a letter received by George W. Knox of this city the fate of Henry Miller and Gus Olinde, who left here on an expedition to Tiburon island, in the Gulf of California, nearly a year ago, and who have never been heard from, is probably disclosed. On the desert shores of the Gulf of California, near a deserted Indian village, a wandering hunter has just found the trappings of Miller and Olinde, a book of natural science which belonged to Olinde, and a pair of dried human bones which were part of the baggage of the unfortunate men. A few feet away was found the charred remains of a large fire and a few of the bones were found to be those of the men who were missing. It is believed that the men were killed by hostile Indians who sought this portion of the California

Granville, O., Nov. 20.—(Special.)

—In one of the cleanest and most interesting games ever played on Beaver field, Denison defeated Western Reserve Saturday afternoon by the score of 1 to 0. For forty-eight minutes the battle waged up and down the field without either side scoring, and it had begun to look as though the game would end in a tie.

Story That Will Interest Smokers Told as Though It Were True.

A well known farmer, says an eastern exchange, fed his horse by mistake a quantity of poultry food, thinking it was stock food, and the mistake was not noticed until the horse had scratched up half the garden and showed signs of wanting to set.

While this sounds a little improbable, yet one of the clerks at J. W. Collins & Son's tells a story akin to it. They have recently secured the agency for Wadsworth Bros.' Chiccos, a cigar that sells for 5c, but is the equal in quality of any 10c. cigar, and in fact is preferred by many smokers. They induced one of their customers who had never smoked anything but an ordinary 5c. cigar to try a Chicco, with the result that he now wants high grade goods in all lines.

Don't buy a Wadsworth Bros.' Chicco because it is cheap; but it is because it is good, because it is a clear long Havana filler, because it has a high grade tobacco flavor and a delightful aroma, because it's the best cigar you can get for solid enjoyment—and there is a satisfaction in feeling that you are getting all this for a nickel.

OWLS WIN OUT

Great Game Played On Tenth Street Grounds Sunday Morning--Moore Ran 75 Yards for Touchdown.

The B. & O. football eleven met defeat at the hands of the Owls Sunday morning on the Tenth street grounds. The score was 15 to nothing and the railroaders had but little show in the game. The nearest they came to the Owl's goal was on the Owl's goal was on the 35 yard line. The game was featured by Moore's 75 yard run for a touchdown and Ridenbaugh's run of 50 yards for another five points.

Russell and Ingle were the officials and McDonald kept time during the game.

Another remarkable demonstration of unemployed poor of London for the purpose of showing their dissatisfaction with the attitude assumed by the government toward their demands for relief occurred today. Ten thousand men, unable to secure work, formed in a procession and marched to Hyde park, where a meeting was held. Violent speeches were made. No disorder.

Gaynor-Greene Trial.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 20.—The trial of Captain Benjamin D. Greene, Colonel John F. Gaynor and others, will be called Tuesday, Jan. 9. The cases were not formally assigned for trial on that date, but Judge Spear adjourned the federal court until that time, and the understanding was general that the court would return for the purpose of disposing of the Greene-Gaynor cases.

MT. VERNON SWAMPED

Delaware High School Almost Annihilated Knox County's Team--Whipped Before Second Half Finish.

Delaware, O., Nov. 20.—Outplayed in every department of the game Saturday and completely exhausted, Mt. Vernon High School was forced to stop the game in the second half with the score of 39 to 0 in favor of Delaware High School. The local team played fast and were never held for down, making from five to fifty yards in every play.

Captain Bogardus of the Mt. Vernon team was hurt after three minutes of play in the first half and Mt. Vernon's only substitute was sent into the game. Left Half Owens was the next victim of Delaware's terrible battering and was taken from the field. As the team then had but ten men, they admitted defeat and surrendered to the Delaware High School eleven.

RODE PILOT

Mother and Child Were Struck By Train, Pilot 200 Feet.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 20.—Carried 200 feet on the pilot of an engine, with her babe in her arms, Mrs. Joseph W. Davis, wife of a dairyman, residing north of Muncie, had a remarkable escape from death Sunday.

Mrs. Davis, with her two children, was driving into the city in the dairy wagon, and at the C. I. and E. crossing on the Wheeling pike, because of the closed sides of the wagon, failed to hear an approaching train. The engine struck the wagon broadside, completely demolishing it. In a manner almost miraculous Mrs. Davis, holding one child, found herself on the "cowcatcher" of the engine. She retained enough presence of mind to hold on in her perilous position. The engine was stopped about 200 feet from the crossing, when the engineer and fireman, expecting to find the mangled remains of the victims of their engine, were surprised to see Mrs. Davis step from the pilot and, her mother instinct first, soothe the frightened child in her arms.

When the engine struck the wagon the horse jumped forward and the other child, a little girl, was thrown by the roadside several feet away, but was not hurt. The horse was knocked down, but not injured.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON
KING OF ALL DISEASES

To Contagious Blood Poison rightfully belongs the name King of all Diseases. It is the most powerful of all human ailments—corrupting every part of the body and wrecking and ruining the lives of those unfortunate enough to contract it. When the first sign appears in the form of an insignificant sore or ulcer, few persons realize that the deadly virus has entered the blood; but so potent is the poison that one drop will vitiate and pollute the purest and healthiest blood, and in a short time the degrading and horrible symptoms begin to appear. The mouth and throat ulcerate, the glands in the neck and groins swell, the hair and eye-brows fall out, copper-colored spots appear on the body, and in the latter stages of the disease the poison even works down and destroys the bones. No other disease is so highly contagious, and many have contracted it and suffered its awful consequences through a friendly hand-shake, handling the clothing of one afflicted with it, or drinking from the same vessel. S. S. S., The King of Blood Purifiers, is the only cure for Contagious Blood Poison. It goes down into the circulation and forces out every particle of the virus. It is nature's antidote for this peculiar poison, and cures the disease in all its stages, and cures it permanently. S. S. S. does not hide or cover up any of the poison to break out in future years, but so completely eradicates it from the blood that no signs are ever seen again. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, and offers $1.00 for proof that it contains a particle of mineral of any kind. Book with instructions for home treatment and any medical advice you desire will be furnished by our physicians without charge.

FRANK HILDRETH HELD FOR MURDER

MT. VERNON GRAND JURY REPORTS INDICTMENTS AND IS EXCUSED.

Jurors Will Resume Work Next Week Taking Up Gambler and Brick-er Cases.

Mt. Vernon, Nov. 20.—Late Saturday afternoon the grand jury made a partial report to Judge Seward. The members of the grand jury were then excused until one week from today when they will again take up their work and investigate a number of cases. Among these will be the Stewart L. Pierson, Kenyon student, case and the Marinda Bricker murder case. There will be no session of the grand jury this week for the reason that Prosecutor Stillwell will be in Mansfield.

Nine indictments were returned Saturday afternoon, the most important being that of Frank Colie, alias Frank Hildreth, on a charge of murder in the first degree, for the killing of Sheriff Shellenbarger.

CORNS ON EARS

Cause An Exodus of Telephone Girls, and the Company Is in a Dilemma.

Pittsburg, Penn., Nov. 20.—Pittsburg telephone girls are seeking other avenues of employment and the company officials are at their wits' end to stay the exodus. All this because the girls declare they are marked for life by the constant use of the receiver.

Of late the girls have discovered hard, yellow corns growing on the tragus, the front portion of the external ear. They are very unsightly and have become so common that telephone girls are promptly identified no matter how gorgeously they are dressed.

Several girls have had the corns removed with the knife, but this leaves a scar and the corns soon grow again, more luxuriantly than before. Not only are the girls leaving the telephone companies because of these corns, but green girls refuse to apply for positions when they see the ears of the older girls. The officials are endeavoring to devise a receiver that will not produce corns.

The girls also complain that the constant use of the receiver at the left ear makes that organ exceptionally acute of hearing to the detriment of the right side, which often proves annoying when they are in society.

RESIGNED JOB

But Got It Again With More Pay—Greenbacks Lost Last Spring Found On Farm.

Utica, O., Nov. 20.—J. J. Williams recently resigned his job as mail messenger between the railroad station and the postoffice, at $118 per year, and he has again been awarded the position on a new bid of $184. He earns the pay—and much more. W. D. Dennison has qualified as his substitute.

Last spring A. M. Iles of near Appleton lost $12 in greenbacks while plowing on his farm. Naturally he supposed they were gone for good. What was his surprise then a few days ago in harrowing the same field to drag out the self same bills, considerably moldy but in good enough condition to be sent to the U. S. treasurer for exchange for new currency.

LITTLE CHILD

Disappeared From Home After Telling Mother He Was Going to School—Found Later.

Quite a bit of excitement was created on Western Avenue, Monday morning when it was reported that little Chauncey Haynes, the three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haynes of 34 Western avenue, had mysteriously disappeared.

The little fellow kissed his mother goodbye, saying that he was going to school. This was about 8 o'clock, when the first bell at the Central school building was ringing. His mother, believing that he was just going out to play thought nothing about his remark, and saw him start out with his father's cap on.

Later when his mother looked for him and could not find him the neighborhood was searched, and the matter was reported to the police. The searchers were held in anxiety regarding the safety of the little fellow until about noon when it was reported that a driver for the Kates grocery, South Fifth street, had found the child wandering about in South Sixth street. He was taken to the grocery by the driver and the parents of the child were notified. Mr. Henry Marshall who resides in the same house with the Haynes family, at once went after the child and he was returned safely to the arms of his anxious parents.

A little Hungarian child was reported lost, but was found within a short time. It was at first thought that this was the Haynes child.

HEAVY TRAINS IN COLLISION

BALTIMORE & OHIO FREIGHT MEN CAUGHT IN WRECK NEAR WARNER, OHIO.

Warren, O., Nov. 20.—Two heavy freight trains on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad collided near here. Fireman Herbert Cook and Head Brakeman Edward Harrison were killed, and Engineer Edward Murphy was badly injured. All three men live in Painesville. The train dispatcher at Warren Junction, realizing that a wreck was imminent, tried to arouse farmers by telephone along the road to have them flag either train, but was unsuccessful in doing so. The westbound train saw the eastbound train approaching, stopped and tried to back up, but did not have time to, and the collision followed. The engines and cars were badly damaged and the track for a considerable distance was torn up.

$4,000,000 WORTH OF WHISKY BURNS

EIGHT HUNDRED THOUSAND GALLONS CONSUMED IN A DISTILLERY FIRE.

Main Bonded Warehouse Burned to Ground—But Loss is Covered By Insurance.

Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 20.—Fire at the A. Overholt distillery, at Broadford, consumed 810,000 gallons of whisky. The loss will reach $4,000,000. The main bonded warehouse was burned to the ground. A steady northwest wind, which blew the flames toward the York-Hogheys river, saved the town of Broadford, the buildings of the H. C. Frick Coke company and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad station from destruction.

As the barrels of old rye on each of the four floors burst the blazing liquid was splashed in all directions. The main track of the railroad was kept clear of debris, and passenger trains shot past at such speed as to avoid damage from the intense heat. Calls for help were sent to Connellsville, Uniontown and McKeesport. Broadford is but two miles from here, and the Connellsville fire department on a special train reached the scene quickly. The men by hard work managed to save the buildings near by, and the calls to the other towns were withdrawn. The ruined building and its contents are still burning fiercely, but the structures surrounding it have been so thoroughly soaked with water that no further losses are feared. It is supposed that the fire started either from spontaneous combustion or from a spark thrown by a passing locomotive down one of the airshafts.

The plant is practically owned by H. C. Frick and the Mellons of Pittsburgh. The loss is covered by insurance.

BOTH BONES BROKEN

J. M. O'Neil Badly Hurt Sunday Afternoon While Trying to Jump An Engine.

Mr. J. M. O'Neil, a Panhandle brakeman, residing in Buena Vista street, had quite a narrow escape in an accident on the B. & O. near the Church street crossing, Sunday about 1 o'clock p. m.

Mr. O'Neil, who is acquainted with a number of the B. & O. employees, attempted to step on the rear of an engine, which was passing. Mr. O'Neil missed his hold and in running to catch the engine, caught his left foot in some manner between the ties and fell. Both bones of the left leg were broken just above the ankle. Bowers and Criss Brothers' ambulance took the injured to the Newark sanitarium, where the limb was dressed. Mr. O'Neil is resting comfortably at present, and has prospects of a rapid recovery.
